HONGKONG, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1882.

According to latest home news, no official announcement had been made with reference to Sir John Pope Hennessy, and the future Government of Hongkong. It would, however, appear from the tone of that portion of the London press which pretends to deal with Chinese affairs, that the return of His Excellency to serve out the remainder of his term in this Colony was so late as July 28th generally understood to be a settled thing. Of course, we have heard, or perhaps it would be more accurate to say, His Excellency the Administrator and Messrs. Jandine, Matheson, & Co, are reported to have heard by telegrams of a later date than our latest mail. news, that Sir John Pore Hennessy had applied for, and been granted, a six months further extension of leave. No doubt, unreliable telegrams affecting Governor HENNESSY prejudicially, have previously been received, or said to have been received, and circulated throughout the Colony, and it is just possible that the report announcing the Governor's extension of leave may be as devoid of truth as the similarly authenticated canards of a few months' back which authoritatively stated we are not inclined to this view, as really cannot see what object could possibly be gained by spreading reports of this character, unless they were strictly accurate. It might be said in reply to this-what advantage did Sir John Pore His Excellency's departure for England, to the effect that the Governor had been recalled by Her Majesty's Government? The query is a fair and reasonable one; but there can be no some extent at least, misled by their cor-certain, if we may judge from precedent,

that no foolish scruples stood in the way of this particular section of the anti-

HENNESSY faction, so long as the Governor at the same mines.

was abused, misrepresented, and made to appear in the eyes of Her Majesty's Government, and the British nation, the worst administrator ever associated with this Colony. Whatever the plans of this party may have been, it is some consolation to know that their political roguery unterly failed to affect the Governor's excellent relations with the Secretary of State, or to deceive or hoodwink the political world.

We have said that we are inclined to -believe that Governor Hennessy has apmonths leave, and this, of course, practically may be taken to mean that he will not return to Hongkong. In the face of the news to hand this morning, however, it must now be patent, if any doubt existed before, how truthful and reliable an authority the China Mail has been in this matter. In London on July 28th the metropolitan newspapers-and-Sir-John-Pope-Hennessyhimself were in the firm belief that the arrangements made for the Governor's return to this Colony to serve out the remaining few months of his term of office would be faithfully adhered to. And yet our evening contemporary knew so much about the intentions of His Excellency, and the policy of the Colonial Office, after the reported receipt of the telegrams, that the editor informed the Hongkong public that he knew weeks before that Sir Journ Pope Hennessy would not return to Hongkong! If the community is not of opinion that the evening journal stands fairly convicted of deliberate falsehood, we shall be much surprised.

Supporters of Governor Hennessy's general policy in the government of Hong-Rong have good cause to congratulate themselves on the fact that His Excellency's administration has met with the cordial approval of Her Majesty's Government, and with the warm support of the people, representing all shades of public opinion in Great Britain. We stated in these columns more than a year ago, when rumours of the Governor's recall were current in the Colony, that Sir John Pore Hennessy's official associations with Hongkong would only be severed at the expiry of his term of service, or when Her Majesty's Government showed their appreciation of his administration by awarding him well-merited promotion. Our predictions have come to pass.' Sir John Pope Hennessy will nominally remain Governor of Hongkong until his term expires in April next; in recognition of his eminent services, he will then be promoted to the governorship of one of the Austrálian Colonies.

PUNCH contains the following amusing skit on some of the preparations for the campaign in Egypt :-- A Battery of Artillery having been already shipped by the authorities from Malta without any horses, while four hundred Marines have arrived at Alexandria, without any rifles, the Orontes troop-ship good-humouredly keeping up the fun, by coming on the scene without any troops, it is quite clear that the Horse Guard have determined to maintain their reputation a the best practical jokers in Europe. - When it is reported that the expedition, now starting ostensibly for Egypt, will be landed quite unexpectedly at Zanzibar, without either it's stores, transport service, ammunition, or boots, while Sir Garnet Wolseley will be put out on the Scilly Islands by mistake, his cocked hats and instructions having been previously sent on to Cyprus, it will be seen that the frolic in store for the delighted taxpayer will be, as usual, fast and furious. Mr. Punch cannot help asking, "Who is the comic man at the back of all this?" for he is bound to admit that that Orontes idea was quite a masterstroke, and promises wonderfully.

THE following comments on the policy of the Government in Hongkong, are taken from the Patt Mall Gazette: It is to be hoped that the Colonial Office will scrutinise carefully the doings of the officers who are administering the government of Hongkong during Governor Sir Pope Hennessy's temporary absence. The policy of fair play to the preponderating Chinese population of the island which has been steadily pursued, inface of much local opposition, for five years was followed by its natural result. Native timidity and suspicion were gradually replaced by confidence in our administration; Chinese capital was freely invested in land and various industrial enterprises in the colony, and the Chinese had commenced to settle permanently on the island. Shortly before the Governor's departure, Mr. Ng-Choy, the only Chinese member of the Legislative Council, prophesied that any reversal of his policy, or any retrograde step, would inevitably be followed by the distrust of the Chinese and the withdrawal of their capital. Unfortunately this warning was unheeded. The Chinese became alarmed at one or two apparently unfriendly acts of the administrator as soon as the Governor had left. The consequence was a steady outflow of Chinese, with their money, which has now reached such a pitch that on June 10, only three short months after the Governor's WE note that the steamer Kwongsang, now en strong hand was removed from the helm, a public

The Sikh was within some 20 yards of the panther when it hove in sight, and could, he says, have easily shot it, but he did not know he was at liberty to do so.

ON THE TRAIL OF THE PANTHER. (BY OUR WAR SPECIAL)

HAPPY VALLEY, 5 A.M.

Friday, 1st September, 1882 Shortly after eight o'clock last night I left head quarters, and sauntered down to the Hongkong Hotel on the off chance of hearing something about the war in Egypt, the threatened trouble in Corea, public gossip about Chiarini's Circus, the latest news regarding the cholera in the Philippines, or in fact anything likely to prov suitable for the columns of the Telegraph. M mission proved a fruitless one. The billiard room was descried, the bar-room empty, ever Colonel Austin's popular shooting range had been handed over to the tender mercies of a China boy, who peacefully slumbered the happy hours away. What could it all mean! where were the life, the galety and excitement which usually characterise this refuge for the weary at eventide? What had transformed the centre of amusement into a veritable habitation of the dead? I approached the bar, which was tenanted by one awe-stricken, Celestial, who gazed at me -with-fear and-trembling-as-L-plucked-up-spirit and cheerfully expressed my desire to indulgein "a soda and brandy." After partaking of this light refreshment, I noticed that the bar-boy was anxiously gazing around the room, his keen eyes hunting under the seats, and billiard tables, as if he expected a visitor from the lower regions. I quietly watched my friend's pantomime for a few moments, and then, losing patience, asked what the deuce was the matter. He looked at me for a moment as if horror-stricken, his lips shaped the familiar words "no savey," but no utterance was heard until with a spasmodic gasp he muttered indistinctly something that sounded revealed at last. Signor Chiarini's black tiger which had made light of bolts and bars a few days previously, and sought refuge on the wild rumour, taken the war-path with a vengeance.

And so it was said that the missing monarch o the jungle had suddenly made his appearance at Aberdeen where he gobbled up an old woman, who mistook the "green eyed monster" for a Chinese dog, and then scampered across the hills to Wong-nei-chong. Of course I at once understood the situation; a "scare" had set in, which to all appearance was not confined exclusively to freed by the Company, as well as those freed by | capital bill of fare has been announced, and we | the Celestials. But what the mischief has all this to do with "On the trail of the Panther" asks my readers? Ah; quite true, Chiarini's dream of fair women had fairly driven the Panther out of my head; mais nous revenous d nos moutons. During the performance tongues, and wild stories, of a class calculated to freeze the blood of the timid, ran through the huge tent like wildfire. However, the audience had been assured that there was no danger of attack from the missing denizen of the forest, and they had every confidence in the assurance. It had been announced that WILD IKE was on the war-path, and the people knew no fear. The scene was changed. The Circus lights had been put out, and so had the vast audience.

The mighty city was generally immersed in deep slumber. Chiarini's tigers had devoured their evening meal and were, at rest; the black bear and the wallaby, like the fabled lion and lamb, had lain down together; the elephants were dreaming of far Ceylon, and even the chattering monkeys had suspended scratching operations until the rising of the sun. From one cage a pair of green eyes could be observed glowering in the direction of the Stag Hotel bar; they were the eyes of the sole remaining black panther; he was lamenting in his own unobtrusive way the absence of his mate. Even the black Chinese cur, which Chiarini had vainly tried to transform into a denizen of the forest, had been taken away, and naturally enough the black panther was mourning his lonely state. But stay, what forms are these clustered around the bar, muttering in stage whispers, and ever and anon lifting their right hands to their heads, and performing what in the distance appears a curious ceremony? I approach closer, and recognise friends. . They are WILD IKE, and the daring hunters of Wong-nei-chong. To my query as to their little game, 1KE takes a long quaff at a "long-sleever" he holds in his dexter paw, and after carefully wiping his mouth with the back of his hand, mutters in rather hoarse and unsteady accents, "Black panther-Chiarini-on trail—to-night hunt him down—have a liquor!" I now survey the party, and for the first time observe that they are armed and fully equipped for thedangerous undertaking. WILD IKE is arrayed in the picturesque garb of the natives of the Rocky Mountains-minus the scalps... From his fringed mocassins to his plumed head-dress the famous scout looks the genuine hunter-none of Mr. F. Watson's Circus impositions. The long hair covering his brawny shoulders gives IKE quite a romantic appearance, and the short rifle. in his left hand, and a most ferocious looking bowie knife which hangs in his belt, are proofs positive that the veteran means business. The large tumbler of brandy and soda, and the fiery appearance of the wild one's rather conspinous nasal organ also indicate business. My restless gaze wanders from the mocassined feet of IKE to the double clumped hob-nailed short sixteens of - Julius Cresar. Yes, there can be no mistaking those well-known hoofs, nor the ancient landmarks to which they are attached. Julius holds in his hand the celebrated duck gun, with a barrel like a young twenty pounder, which dealt death and destruction to the drove of wild boars that had the temerity to attack the dauntless Nimrod in one of his great expeditions into the wilds of Yau-mah-ti. These things are written in the chronicles of the times, so I need not dilate upon them here. Woe betide that luckless panther if he comes within range of the death-dealing blunderbus of Julius Casar. "Dead or alive," quietly observes Julius, as he leans his piece of ordnance against the bar; he then takes a long pull at his glass, and rubbing his hands in the old style, smiles sweetly, and sunvely repeats "dead or alive." There are two other hunters, one a "crack" Jockey and sporting correspondent who is known among his familiars as " Mudhead ;" and the other a prominent public character, who did not write "Harvey's Meditations among the Tombs." The last named gentleman has evidently an eye to the main chance, wishing to unite pleasure with business, for outside the gate stands a familiar four-wheeled object which, all going well, is intended to bring the victim from the field of slaughter. It has been arranged that in the event of the expedition proving successful, the Band will celebrate the occasion to-morrow night by playing "Home they brought her Warrior dead." The hunters are evidently in no great hurry to take to the mountains; the yarns, of WILD IKE and JULIUS CASAR are highly amusing, if a little overdrawn, and the hours pass quickly away. At length I get wearled and take my leave, wishing the self elected protectors of the public, good luck in their search for the panther. The brave fellows generously offer forming the plan of their campaign. And what about the panther? I regret to say he is still at large. On awaking this morning La set out for Bowrington to hear the news of the hunters' scarchi." The busy day, waked by the lark, had roused the ribald crows," but it had a not by a very long chalk roused the panther. hunters. Where I left them, there they lay pale and inanimate, worn out with the night's heavy toils, and sleeping off the effects of their arduous labors. They had not tracked the savage beast to his lair amidst the mountains; they had been in fact so overcome by their feelings, and by the recollections which the relation of old stories brought up that they forgot all about the missing animal, and made a night of it. I succeeded after some trouble in to arousing the gallant heroes, and after placing them under the pump for about ten minutes. opened their eyes to the responsibilities of the influence over the ferocious monarchs of the lattration; The camp was then struck and we

WILKE swearshe will not return to civilised life if he has tracked, and either captured or in the panther, and I am bound to believem. This is evidently a dangerous locality. ULIUS CÆSAR went on the course in search a mushroom bed that he knew of old, but lyas unpleasantlydisturbed in his peaceful min by an ill-tempered buffalo which charged; noble Roman in a most vicious style. - 1 couldver have believed that JULIUS had such a raren of speed. The way those short sixteens could the ground was really marvellous, but then thuffalo was close up, and that was a strong lucement for the pursued to put forth his besprinting powers. Julius eventually scrambledo the ditch which separates the course from tenclosure, and escaped his enemy. He rushfor the duck gun, but IKE prevented his using deadly weapon. Here is Mudhead at last winur morning meal. An revoir!

Doubtless, Colonel Austin is one of the most renowned hunters of this, or any other age, and in select circles, though low be it spoken, "Wild Ike" is known as and is none other than the renowned "Leatherstocking" of Mr. J. Fenimore Cooper, but the idea of our "Special," after his very shabby behaviour, classing himself as one of two of the greatest living hunters of the present age, is about as rich as a cream cheese swarming with maggots. The statement that our "Special" met and spoke with the while on the war path, has no foundation. We have -made enquiries, and find that there is not a scintilla of truth in the statement. How our "Special" can expect us to believe that he woke up suddenly and grasped his rifle, which he had left some hundred yards off, is more than we can explain, and stamps the worthy who tries to get us to swallow that item as being the equal, if not superior, in Munchausening, of the talented "boss" of the "Oracle of Truth." The manner in which our "Special" tries to soap us over with the yarn about the pork chops, and the morning and evening prints, is about as rich as the pie which had nothing in it but fat and cod liver oil. We are not to be had by any such subterfuge. The burying of the body is also a rather transparent one. The redoubtable hunter (in his own estimation) had promised to bring the body to Peddar's Hill, dead or alive, and this shallow change his color. The Duke of Argyll presided at a meeting held at Glasgow, at which a proposal was submitted to cut a ship canal through the Mull of Cantyre. The canal, which will be only two miles long, will save 115 miles to vessels going from the Clyde to the North and West of Scotland. Its cost is estimated at between a hundred and fifty and two hundred thousand pounds.

The Gazette of the 21st instructions the following notification:—The Queen has been pleased to direct Letters Patent to be passed under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ircland granting the dignity of a Knight of the said United Kingdom unto George Phillippo, Esq., Chief Justice of the Supreme Court

With reference to the measure that has been introduced into the United States Senate to modify the Chinese Exclusion Bill so as to enable Chinese to, pass, through the United States in transit, the Attorney-General has decided that under the Chinese Exclusion law it is unlawful to convey Chinamen_across_the_United States_on their homeward journey from Cuba. We are informed that the Conference of Foreign Ministers sitting at Tokio, to discuss and arrange with the Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs the terms of the revised treaties, has come to an agreement with respect to the tariff proposals, and that this portion of the revision is now definitely settled. Of the nature of the settlement nothing has yet been made public; but issued by your contempora the Morning we believe that a considerable increase in the present duties has been agreed to.

Some dissatisfaction has been expressed at the fact that six offices of Cabinet rank are now held the close of the Session attention will be directed to the subject. Mr. Gladstone is First Lord of the Treasury and Chancellor of the Exchequer; Lord Carlingford is Lord Privy Scal and Lord President of the Council; and the Earl of Kimberley is Colonial Secretary and Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. Mr. Baron Fitzgerald has tendered his resignation, which has been accepted. The learned Judge was called to the Bar in 1834, and applied himself chiefly to Equity practice. He was a keen and subtle lawyer, and was among the advocates who defended O'Connell and his friends in 1843. He also defended Mr. Smith O'Brien in 1848. In 1857 he was made a Hencher of the King's-inn, and was raised to the Bench without having passed the official stages of Solicitor and Attorney-General.

We hear it is contemplated by the Chinese community in London to pay a tribute of respect to Sir John Pope Hennessy, Governor, of Hongkong. They have decided to present him, whilst on leave in this country, with an illuminated address, which will convey in emphatic language; the grateful feelings with which they regard his administration of Hongkong. Sir J. Pope Hennessy has been offered, and has accepted, the presidency of the Crime Section of the Social Science Congress, to be held this year at Not-

Captain Harry Holdsworth Rawson; who has been appointed to the Thalia, additional, as principal transport officer in Egypt, entered the service in 1857; was present at the capture of the Peiho Forts and Peking (China medal), and for three months was in command of 1,300 Chinese troops, for the defence of Ningpo against the rebels. In shuffle is simply enough to make a shrimp. 1878 he received the thanks of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty for his report on the that the panther has been seen hovering capabilities of defence, &c., of the Suez Canal. He hoisted the English flag at Nicosia, the capital of Cyprus, and for one month was military commandant of that place. A capture which is regarded as of the very highest importance has been made on the arrival of a steamer at Alexandria from Constantinople. Ragheb Bey, the second officer, was arrested, and on him were found documents which showed that for months he had been acting as an agent between Arabi and a Committee at Constantinople. He has made a full confession, and given a complete list of the persons with whom Arabi was connected. In this list are included the names of several influential personages at Yeddiz Kiosk, including Sheiks Zaffar and Essad, the Sultan's principal agents for stirring up religious agitation in Arab countries... Ragheb-also gave a list of Arabi's confederates in Egypt, and many startling and most important revelations are expected. On his person was found a letter, of which he was the bearer from Constantinople to Arabi; it is written in Turkish cipher, and its contents are at present undiscovered. He also had various testimonials from Arabi for the various valuable
